CRISIS REACHED IN THE BALKANS

Berlin Government Thinks War Is Imminent.

(Special to The Herald)

Berlin, Sept. 28.—Dispatches from Bucharest state that Greece has notified the Bulgarian government that it will offer determined resistance to the passage of foreigners through its territory. They also report that the Serbian minister at Sofia has left and that Bulgarian consuls in Macedonia have been granted "leaves of absence." These reports are taken in Berlin as indicating that a crisis in the Balkans has been reached and that the war is imminent.

DR. DUMBA UNCONDITIONALLY RECALLED

Will Sail From the United States For His Country on October 5th

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Sept. 28.—Austria-Hungary has bowed to President Wilson's will. Dr. Dumba has been unconditionally recalled by his government, and safe conduct has been asked for him. He will sail for home on Oct. 5 on the Nieuw Amsterdam. State department officials today declared that with the sailing of Dr. Dumba his case is finally closed. In recalling him unconditionally Austria-Hungary has signified to this country that the ambassador has overstepped his authority and that the action of the United States in demanding his recall was warranted.

in Explosion at Ardmore, Oklahoma.

(Special to The Herald)

Ardmore, Okla., Sept. 28.—Additional bodies discovered in the wreckage of the two city blocks devastated by Monday's gasoline explosion and fire today brought the total known dead up to 45. A dozen others are missing and it was estimated the total death list will be between 55 and 60. Estimates of property damage ran as high as $1,000,000.

GERMANS ARE HOLDING STERN

No Break in Great German
Front of 310 Miles.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The general attack of the Anglo-French forces along the western front has proved a failure. All along the line the Germans are holding stern. Military experts in analyzing the situation in the western front today declared that there is no possibility of the Allies breaking through the German front on account of its great front of 310 miles.

FUNERAL OF VICTIMS OF F4

Remains of the Fourteen Men Who Perished in Ill-Fated Submarine Laid at Rest in Arlington Cemetery

Washington, Sept. 28.—Last 30,000 veterans of the Civil war who stood with bared heads, four gun carriages each conveying one flag-draped coffin, bore from the Washington navy yard today to Arlington National cemetery the remains of fourteen men who perished in the disaster to the submarine F-4 beneath the waters of Honolulu harbor last March. Companions in death their bones were commingled to- day in the four coffins. They lie now in one grave. It was a fitting coincidence that the funeral should be held during the 12th annual encampment of the G. A. R. and that the line of march from the navy yard to the cemetery was that over which veterans passed in review before President Lincoln fifty years ago, and over which a few thousand survivors of that event will march tomorrow.

HEAVY SNOW STORMS RAGING IN POLAND

Expected to Hasten the Climax of the German Attack in That Region.

(Special to The Herald)

Petrograd, Sept. 28.—Heavy snowstorms are raging north of the Gulf of Finland and are rapidly spreading to the south. The approach of winter is expected to hasten the climax of the German attacks on Dvinsk within a short time. Emperor William has ordered Von Hindenburg to take that place this week and then march on Riga in order that these two important cities may be used as winter quarters for the Germans, according to statements made by German prisoners here.

EXETER MACHINE COLLIDES WITH JITNEY BUS

An automobile owned and operated by C. D. Hatch of Exeter, and a jitney bus owned and driven by Gilbert A. Row of Newburyport were in collision at the corner of First street and main road at Ring's Island on Monday. There were no passengers in the jitney. Mr. Hatch was accompanied by his wife. While the machines were damaged no one was hurt. The corner is a blind one.

MUNITION PLANTS ARE GROWING

WINCHESTER ARMS CO. TO EXPEND OVER $1,000,000 ON NEW FACTORIES.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 27.—Metal working industries throughout Connecticut continue unusually busy, regardless of whether they are directly manufacturing war munitions or manufacturing parts of munitions or the tools and machinery used in producing them. The greatest activity, however, continues among munition plants, and these continue to expand beyond expectations and prophesies of six months ago. Illustration of this is had in the Winchester Arms Manufacturing Company in New Haven, which in two days of the past week was granted permits to erect factories to cost over $1,000,000, two of which will cost $400,000, and another $300,000, while other smaller structures will cost another $300,000, making for this company alone a total investment of over $2,500,000 in new buildings within the year, and a total property valuation, as roughly estimated for purposes of taxation, of fully $5,000,000. This growth is believed to have been considerably surpassed by that of the Remington Arms-Union Metallic Cartridge Company in Bridgeport, which was granted permits for two more factory buildings within the past week and now has a plant which includes a series of five and six-story buildings, covering nearly eighty acres, and the most of which buildings have been erected within the eight months.

A new development, which is being watched with keen interest in industrial circles, is that promised in West Haven, where the Maxlin Munition Company, of which Hudson Maxlin, the inventor, is president, has bought the factory erected for the Foster Manufacturing Company. Guards now pace the grounds, strangers cannot gain entrance, and plans are in the works for large additions. It is expected that in a short time about five hundred men will be employed. It is currently stated the company will manufacture rapid-fire guns.

Over in Waterbury the Chase Metal Works have commenced work on a big brick and steel addition, 140 by 150 feet, one story high; also three additions, 60 by 250 feet, 50 by 320 feet, 40 by 200 feet, each two stories high; also two other additions, 60 by 160 feet and 60 by 120 feet, one story high. The American Brass Company is erecting a one-story structure, 75 by 285 feet, in addition to its Waterbury plant.

In Westfield the Geometrical Tool Company is building a two-story addition, 42 by 195 feet.

In Hristol the New Departure Company, one of whose principal products is ball bearings, has resumed work on its new factory building, which will be 127 by 252 feet. Work on this structure was temporarily halted by the company because of the recent strike in its main plant.

In Groton the New London Ship and Engine Company is just completing a large addition to its plant, which will probably be used principally for the manufacture of engines to be used in

SOME FAMOUS MEN WHO HELPED MAKE GOLF HISTORY THIS SEASON IN TOURNEY AT RYE.

New York, Sept. 28.—Go get yourself a set of golf clubs and live to be old and healthy. The game's the best pastime cure ever invented. Those who want to be convinced of this need only visit the Apawamis links, at Rye, where the annual senior's golf tournament has been in progress for the past few weeks, and watch several hundred "old boys," whose ages range from fifty-five to eighty-four, about the ball around with the spirit of youngsters. If this wasn't enough the visitor could ask any player to what he attributed his good health, and the answer invariably would be—golf. There's James D. Foote, for instance. He never took up golf till he was fifty. He's been playing it ever since, and now at sixty-five the Apawamis veteran is as fit as the traditional hulk. However, this isn't a health giving lesson; it is a report of the seniors' meet. Yet one gets the idea after watching the old fellows perform that Ponce de Leon, several hundred years ago, had the wrong dope in his search for a fountain of youth. He should have exercised with the driver and brassie. The men shown in the illustration are, left to right, Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, Justice H. H. General Weaver, Frank Presbury and Judge H. A. Gilderleeve.

NO FIREBUGS AT HAMPTON BEACH SEASON OF 1915-16

Officials Do Not Believe Sensational Stories About Incendiaries.

All idea that the disastrous fire which swept Hampton beach Thursday night was caused by an incendiary or a firebug was dissipated yesterday, when, after a thorough investigation, Chief L. C. King and Robert Tolman, police officer of the town of Hampton, say they believe the blaze was caused by children who were playing with matches.

With this point settled conclusively in their minds, and with the work of clearing the wreckage and ruins away begun, owners of property which was destroyed are looking toward a new future and new structures at Hampton beach which will far surpass those destroyed by the flames.

Two things which are declared paramount are the need of sturdier construction of buildings and new building laws, and also improved fire protection, especially the latter, for in spite of new regulations there are still large areas of hotel and cottage sections which would be destroyed if fire visited them under the conditions of Thursday night.

Members of the board of selectmen say the town will do its part if sufficient encouragement is given, and under these hopeful signs owners of the lots upon which burned buildings stood are talking of rebuilding immediately. This sentiment has lent an air of brightness into the pall of gloom which followed the full realization of the seriousness of the conflagration and everybody at the beach is most hopeful.

The board of trade has taken a step in advance and at a meeting last night it was probable that many of the decisions to rebuild, became known, although it is now stated almost with certainty that the owners of the larger buildings will reconstruct their property.

In the mass of rumors which have been flying about, such as an infection of the fire bug theory, violation of state fire laws in the placing of fire escapes and other stories which gained ready listeners and believers, Chief King says there is nothing to them.

The congregation of St. Peter's church will consider rebuilding immediately and as will Chief King, one of the heaviest losers in the fire, and who was only partially covered by insurance. The minister for it is heavy, as owing to the high rates, property owners carried only a partial indemnity on every lot which might result from fire.

Incidentally, the fire did not come as a surprise to the insurance underwriters, for many of the smaller buildings were of such flimsy character as not to be accepted as insurance risks at any rate, while they intensified the hazard of loss of the more pretentious structures.

The loss is accepted more or less philosophically, for the beach residents and others are more than thankful that the fire did not occur in the height of the summer season when personal losses would have been so great; that the totals would have been nearly doubled. Practically all the cottages and hotels had been closed for the season, and the more valuable of the furnishings and property of the summer visitors had been removed.

Two things of benefit to Hampton beach will result from the fire, in the opinion of the town officials and the officials of the police and fire departments. These will be better fire protection and more stringent building laws.

WITH THE SPORTS

New York, Sept. 28.—The explanation for the many low hit games pitched by veterans in the last month or so of every baseball campaign is that they do most of their performing against rookies.

Along about Sept. 10 the manager of clubs that are out of the pennant fights pull their regulars out of the lineup and give the youngsters a chance to display their wares. Only about one youngster in every fifteen measures up to major league standards, and the result is that the opposing veteran pitchers have a comparatively easy time of it.

Also it will be noticed that during a late part of the season the clubs that remain in the fight for the budding role up huge scores when pitted up against the out-of-the-race clubs. The explanation is simple. The pennant contending teams keep their strongest lineup in the field, while the manager of the other team anxious to try out his new pitchers pits them against the flag chasing outfit.

Of yet, sometimes the veteran club strikes a tartar and finds itself unable to hit the offerings of a youngster. But that happens only about once in every ten times.

Nervousness and over anxiety often sends back to the highest many a player who under normal circumstances, should make good in the majors.

The rookie, testing his big league chance realizes that from fifteen to twenty other youngsters are getting a trial at the same time and that a manager hasn't much time to devote to watching or developing him.

The rookie, therefore tries with his whole heart and soul to show brilliantly in his first few trials. He is fearful that he won't succeed, and terribly anxious to succeed. The result is that instead of being cool and calm he is in an excited state. He fumbles drives that would have been easy for him if nervousness hadn't bothered him. He goes up to the bat and instead of exercising patience and caution he tries to kill the ball. He goes after nearly everything pitched in his direction and the result is that he fans or pushes out a puny grounder or an easy fly.

Ty Cobb's anxiety to make good nearly caused him to be sent back to the minors. The wonderful Georgian joined the Tigers back in the fall of 1905. He was purchased for $700 and came into the big leagues unheralded. True, he had made a good record in the South, but his record was not half as wonderful as two-thirds of the minor leaguers who get a major league chance each year, and flounder.

Cobb got his try out in 1905. He was over anxious. He did what the majority of rookies do—swing at nearly everything that came to him. In the field he showed up only ordinarily well. But Ty had the pep and he looked promising. The Tiger management decided to give him another chance in 1906, the despite the fact that he had batted only around .200.

In the spring of 1906 Ty showed up a little better but nervousness and over-anxiety were his enemies. He wanted to hold down a regular job—wanted to prove that he was a ball player. And so in the early part of the season he performed with only ordinary results.

Just about that time the New York Americans and Tigers were involved in trade negotiations. The Yankees wanted Cobb and were willing to give Delahanty, then in the heyday of his career in exchange. The Tigers balked, they wanted a pitcher in addition and the deal fell through.

Ty then was told that he had a regular job in the outfield of the Tigers. Right then and there he settled down. His nervousness left him and over anxiety no longer afflicted him. He began playing ball unworried and unafraid and he has since developed into the most brilliant player that baseball has ever known.

ALLIES CONTINUE MOVING ONWARD

Anglo-French Forces Hammer Gains Through German Field Works.—French Advance Farther in Champagne.

London, Sept. 27.—Whether the offensive assumed by the Allies on different parts of their line is the great drive to be continued till Germany is thrown out of northern France and Belgium, or an operation calculated to drive a wedge eastward from the British front at La Bassée and northward from the French front between Hincin and Verdun for the purpose of turning the invaders out of their positions in the salient between Arras and Berry-au-Bac, or prying the Crown Prince from his position in front of Verdun, or merely a diversion to further weaken the German offensive in Russia and remove the threat of a Teutonic thrust through the Balkan states to join hands with Turkey, the affair showed that given sufficient artillery and munitions, in addition to an abundance of men, and the strongest field works yet devised can be carried. Today's official Paris statement says that the French offensive in the Champagne is continuing and that further German positions have been taken and that the gains in the Artois region of northwest France have been maintained. Both sides are delivering an intense artillery fire between the Meuse and Moselle to east of Verdun, and also in Lorraine. Beyond this the censorship appears to have closed the lid on war news. In two days the French and British have gained greater results than in the preceding twelve months of fighting since the battle of the Marne, with upwards of twenty thousand German prisoners in their hands and some thing like thirty guns, without counting machine guns, and with a formidable breach in the German line. It is believed in London that the new move in the west will again bring the Germans face to face with the necessity of making a choice between the two fronts, as was the case earlier in the war. Military writers point out that the Russians are now holding the Austrians and Germans on a front of seven hundred miles, while the presence of nearly two million strongly entrenched Germans has failed to prevent an advance in France.

Further Gains in Champagne.
Paris, Sept. 27.—The new offensive movement is continuing along the entire front in Champagne. The war office announced today that further German positions had been occupied. The announcement also says that all gains in the Artois region, in northwestern France, have been maintained. There is intense cannonading between the of Hueluch have been captured and the French on the British right have been enabled to make further progress, the statement says.

"There has been severe fighting today," reads the official communication "on the ground won by us yesterday the enemy making determined counter-attacks east and northeast of Loos.

"The result of this fighting is that, except just north of Loos, we hold all the ground gained yesterday, including the whole of Loos itself.

"This evening we re-took the quarries northwest of Hueluch, which we re-won and lost yesterday. We have in this fighting drawn in the enemy's reserves, enabling the French on our right to make further progress.

"The number of prisoners collected after yesterday's fighting amount to 2600. Nine guns have been taken and a considerable number of machine guns.

"Our aeroplanes today bombarded and derailed a train near Loffres, east of Douai, and another, which was full of troops, at Rohult, near Saint Amand. The Valenciennes station also was bombarded."

Hand-to-Hand in the East.
Petrograd, Sept. 27.—The following official statement was issued at the headquarters of the general staff:—

"The situation was somewhat quieter along the Divinsk front. According to the statements of prisoners the Germans suffered severe losses in the recent encounters and attacks which we repulsed. After a fight yesterday for the possession of the village of Delsvinty on the lake of the same name, the Germans were driven from the village."

"In the Villya region above Vileika desperate actions continue. We captured the village of Iestevika. The Germans delivered a series of attacks near Vileika, pushing them so far on many occasions that bayonet fighting ensued. All the attacks were repulsed. In the district northwest of Vileika our troops carried by bayonet charge the fortified village of Ostroff and recaptured the village of Ghrlyr.

"On the Smargon front and south of that town the fighting continues. In the region of Jaxdomy east of the village of Ydie the enemy developed a violent fire with heavy artillery. Our troops evacuated the village."

"With the bayonet we crushed the desperate resistance of the Germans near the village of Podgure east of Novogrodok, taking prisoner four officers and ninety-two men. An extremely hot engagement was fought all day yesterday near the farm of Marlssene, also east of Novogrodok, the trenches constantly changing hands. South of this farm, as the result of repeated attacks, the enemy was driven from his trenches near the village of Old Koltchity. We took prisoner here about six hundred Germans and captured several machine guns, two provision columns, artillery wagons and ammunition. Still farther to the south the village of Podgure also fell into our hands after a bloody bayonet charge."

"On the Stramenn river we drove back across the stream the Germans who abandoned numerous wounded and a large quantity of munitions and burned the bridge near Statcheff."

"There were no incidents of note south of Plusk, on the front south of the Pripet or in the Galician theatre."

"In the actions which we recently have fought bayonet charges have become ordinary occurrences with our troops and are the best proof of their military courage. In the Poloviz district west of Tchorokoff twenty of our cavalrymen charged a party of Austrians who were working on defenses, sabering eighteen men and an officer and taking prisoners one officer and forty-seven men. Only two of our horsemen were wounded, these slightly.

At another point a small Russian patrol attacked an Austrian post of twenty men. They took nine prisoners and sabred the others."

Capture 10,000-Foot Peaks.
Rome, Sept. 27.—The following official statement from general headquarters was issued last night:—

"Fighting continues in the Cevadate zone, where the enemy, having received reinforcements and artillery, attempted on Sept. 24 to rush our positions at Capanna and Cedek. Our troops in the upper Val Tellina hastened up and the enemy was counter-attacked and repulsed."

"In Carina on the 23d, after an intense artillery action along our whole front, the enemy attempted two successive attacks, but was repulsed on each occasion."

"Our artillery shelled the railroad and station at Turalls, causing a big outbreak of fire. On the Carso front the situation is unchanged."

Rush Germans to Front.
London, Sept. 27.—In a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Rotterdam, dated Sunday afternoon, the correspondent says:

"Whatever may be the final issue of events now in hand along the Western front, it can at least be said that the Germans are hard pressed. Every available man in Belgium is being flung into the defense. Troops, newly arrived, are being rushed to the firing line without an hour's rest, while villages and frontier posts are being denuded of their guards in an endeavor to meet the Allies' onslaught. The German losses are described as terrible; the roar of cannon can be heard ceaselessly at places well inside the Zealand frontier and an endless procession of German wounded is pouring into towns and villages behind the enemy's lines in Belgium."

"Yesterday there was fighting over a wide area with all arms engaged, by land, by sea and by air."

The Telegraph's Reuters correspondent sends to his paper a despatch describing the latest activities on the western front. The despatch says:

"War again in all its horror! There is heavy fighting in Flanders. The gunfire is tremendous. Wagons with all kinds of supplies thunder along the roads."

"There is a fearful bringing back of wounded. The trains bring the into Roulers in crowds and automobiles rush them to villages close behind the lines. Cortemerk has all its available buildings filled and more are constantly arriving in wagons, lying on straw, which has been hastily improvised into beds. The soldiers speak of the scenes at the front with shudders. Great events are everywhere expected."

BEST VAUDEVILLE PORTSMOUTH HAS SEEN THIS YEAR

COLONIAL THEATRE BILL MADE UP OF ALL HEADLINE ACTS FOR THE FIRST THREE DAYS

It was the undivided opinion of each member of his large audience at the Colonial Theatre last evening that the vaudeville offered at the beautiful play house was about the best that they had seen. There were three acts and all were of the headline variety. It was a decidedly "different" show, two of the numbers being put across without a spoken word or a song.

"The Dancing Mice" presented one of the greatest dancing novelties Portsmouth has ever witnessed, both as to novelty and real merit. The number has special scenery and a wonderful transformation introducing an oriental dance was better than any act the local stage has yet presented. The big novelty dance, "All for a Kiss," was particularly beautiful and artistic.

"The Dancing Mice" would be a feature act at any house in New England. "Los Agoustes," two men and two women, presented a great novelty juggling act that has played as headlines in all the big cities. The act is a pantomime number called "A Jolly Supper at Maxim's" and every move made by the performers stamps them as masters in their art. It is without exception, the best juggling turn that has been presented at any house in this city.

Brown and Herzog are a couple of comedians with a lot of new stuff that is funny, and they are each real singers. The big audience showed its appreciation of their act, as it did each of the others, by its generous applause. Their "train" part of the entertainment was just a little better than very funny.

The entire bill, including the picture part of the program went to make a strong show. It is finely balanced and there was real entertainment and satisfaction from start to finish.

WATCHMAN MURDERED IN HARDWARE STORE

Negroes Put Three Bullets Into Portland Night Watchman and Escape.

(Special dispatch)
Portland, Me., Sept. 25.—The entire County of Cumberland is up in arms and large forces of deputy sheriffs, police officers and citizens are engaged in an active search for two negroes alleged to have been guilty of the murder of William E. St. John, aged 76, who was shot and killed here last night. St. John was employed as night watchman in the hardware and sporting goods building of Edwards and Walker, located in the heart of the city. He was shot through the heart and two other bullet wounds were found in his arm. He was dead when found by officers of the American District Telegraph Company shortly after 7:30 o'clock.

Description of two negroes, thought to have done the work were sent out by the police department to all cities in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. This description was telephoned and read: "Two negroes of massive build are wanted here for connection with the murder of a night watchman in a hardware store this evening. Both were big men, 5 feet 10 or 6 feet in height, one with extremely broad shoulders, both roughly dressed wore caps, smooth shaven. Use care as it is thought both are armed. Three shots fired into victim."

St. John was found dead on the landing of the third floor of the building with a bullet hole from a 38-calibre revolver through his heart and two other wounds in his arm. He had been dead for about thirty minutes when discovered.

When the regular call from the clock located in the A. D. T. office failed to register from the Edwards and Walker company, officials of the company set out to make an investigation. The door was found open and St. John was found on the landing of the third floor. The police were notified and an investigation set under way at once. The police were informed of the suspicious actions of two negroes and it was immediately suspected that they were implicated in the affair.

It is thought that they were surprised in their work by St. John and fired at him to prevent his giving an alarm.

Every train leaving the city has been searched by armed officials and special deputies. Private automobiles have been pressed into the service and a thorough search in Cumberland county is being made. All automobiles leaving the city on any of the roads are being held up and searched and officers are at all stations on the Boston and Maine, Maine Central and Grand Trunk railroads in the expectation that the men may have boarded a passenger or freight train.

At two o'clock this morning no report had been received of any capture but it is thought unlikely that they can escape for long as the wood sections about Portland have been surrounded by large bodies of armed men.

BOXING SEASON OPENS TONIGHT

Portsmouth's boxing season will open tonight when three good bouts are staged in Freeman's hall. Some of the city's old favorites will appear in the squared circle and action is promised in all of the bouts. "Knockout" Stauber, who twice but "Boyd" to the floor for the big bout last year is going against a fast man and is in the pink of condition. Stauber never did anything here but work from the time the bell sounded until his man was flat and he will give the same sort of action tonight.

Heinie Cragen, who believes in making the "actors" work, will be in the ring as referee.

DIRE DISTRESS

It Is Near at Hand to Hundreds of Portsmouth Readers.

Don't neglect an aching back. Backache is often the kidneys' cry for help.

Neglect hurrying to the kidneys' aid. Means that urinary troubles may follow.

Or danger of worse kidney trouble. Here's Portsmouth testimony.

Arlon A. Ballou, machinist, 373 Pleasant St., Portsmouth, says: "For some time my kidneys were out of order and caused my back to become very lame and painful. I finally got so bad that I could not work as any sudden movement sent sharp twinges through my body. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Philbrick's Drug Store, gave me relief and I have had practically no trouble from my kidneys since. Whenever I hear anyone complaining of backache, I advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills and know of several persons who have acted on my suggestion and have been benefited."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Ballou had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT FOR BOW STREET FIRE

DOUBLE HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AND LATER BROKE OUT AGAIN.

An alarm from box 51 at 5:30 o'clock last evening called the fire department to a blaze in the double dwelling house on Bow street, owned by Horace Pearson and occupied by the families of Charles Gardner and John Howe. Considerable damage was done by smoke and water but the fire damage was slight. The fire was caused by a defective chimney and had gained some headway before the department was called. Two streams and the work by the chemical apparently extinguished the blaze and the "all-out" was sounded at 6:12.

Later in the evening the chemical was called by telephone to the same scene, fire having been discovered smoldering in the floors. The flying squad responded and half an hour later reported "all-out" for the second time.

As the chemical was returning from the first alarm in the afternoon they were obliged to play a stream on the awning of Bert Tilton's store on Market street. This blaze is thought to have started from sparks from a steam fire engine passing while responding to the first alarm.

The house is located between Hersey's paint shop and the wholesale liquor store of William McGinnis. It was feared that the fire might spread to each of the two adjoining properties as the wind was high, but the department kept the fire confined to the one building.

THIRTY-ONE KILLED IN GASOLINE EXPLOSION

(Special dispatch)
Ardmore, Okla., Sept. 25.—Thirty-one persons were killed and more than 200 seriously injured here last night when a 250 barrel tank of gasoline, located in the heart of the business district, exploded. The property damage is thought to exceed $500,000.

The simplest and safest remedy for Eczema and other Skin Troubles is Cadum Ointment.

Many skin diseases like eczema are due to an external cause and are not the result of impure blood. The taking of internal medicines is a waste of time and money. Cadum Ointment stops the itching at once, and the healing begins immediately. The "Know How" of Cookery is the result of long experience and study. For years, expert cooks have been converting the inner meats of choice Indian Corn into delicious, golden-brown crisps—POST TOASTIES.

A constant endeavor to make Toasties better has produced the

NEW Post Toasties

which have a NEW flavour and form—a true corn flavour and tender crispness unknown to "corn flakes" of the past.

The new process raises tiny pearl-like "puffs" on each flake—a distinguishing feature; also imparts substantial form—the NEW Toasties don't mush down when cream or milk is added.

They come factory-fresh in wax-sealed packages—as crisp and appetizing as when they leave the ovens—and that's mighty good!

Portsmouth, N. H., Tuesday, September 28, 1915.

The National Encampment.

This week will be one of exceptional interest to the people of Washington and the entire country, it being the occasion of the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which is to be held at the national capital. This organization is very close to the hearts of the people and the interest in its gatherings is general and genuine.

There are several facts which will make the interest this year keener than usual. It is the fiftieth anniversary of the close of the Civil war, and the conditions that obtain in Europe recall vividly the suffering and sacrifices of those who saved the Union from disruption. Every member of the Grand Army is now an old man, but in spite of age and infirmities thousands of them will march over the route followed when the returning armies were reviewed at the close of the war in which they had been victorious.

The people of Washington, mindful of the fact that the hand of age lies heavily on the men of the Grand Army, have made adequate provision for their entertainment and comfort while in that city. At past encampments the veterans have had their quarters in tents, but on this occasion they will occupy an immense building, the one in which the last census was compiled. For this event it has been fitted so that it will furnish excellent accommodations for the great gathering, and the comfort of the old soldiers will be carefully looked after in all respects. There will even be a branch postoffice in the encampment building, enabling the men to post and receive their mail without leaving headquarters.

While this will be a vast gathering, there are thousands of Grand Army men who will be unable to attend because of the burden of years and infirmity, but their hearts will be with the grizzled remnant of the "Boys in Blue," and news from the encampment as it appears in the columns of the press from day to day will be eagerly scanned. In a double sense Washington will be the center of interest in the United States this week.

It is the hope of all that the weather will be favorable, and that there may be no untoward happening to mar the memorable event. It will be the last encampment for many who attend, for the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic are heavily depleted every year. May every veteran in Washington this week have a happy time and a safe return home.

Henry W. Taft, brother of ex-President William Howard Taft, is confident that the latter will not be a candidate for the republican presidential nomination next year. It is an interesting coincidence that this statement should be given out so soon after one of the Chicago papers learned through its Washington bureau that Col. Theodore Roosevelt probably will be. But the chances are that the brother of the ex-president is nearer right than the Chicago newspaper.

It is reported from London that the Indian government has refused Dr. Cook's request for permission to climb Mt. Everest. The refusal was quite needless. He never would have done it if the government had let him alone ever so hard. But India evidently doesn't want any such sensation as he created in this country when he "returned from the North Pole."

A government official just returned from the West reports that farmers are holding their wheat for $1.25 a bushel. They appear to be as ready to get something out of the war as the machinists are. In fact, there appears to be no class immune from this all-pervasive "itch."

On account of the war the Italian societies of New York will have no parade on Columbus day this year, but will hold a charity festival instead for the benefit of Italians suffering from the effects of the war. Under the circumstances the decision is sensible.

In the trial of men charged with corrupting elections in Indiana it was testified that some voters were bought at ten cents apiece. But who knows that they didn't vote as they pleased after getting their drinks?

New York State has opened a fight against illiteracy. This is well, albeit the news from Plymouth church and numerous banks in that state plainly indicate that illiteracy is not at the bottom of all the troubles.

A Boston paper figures out that government in this country—national, state and municipal—costs $54 per capita. And still the multiplication of offices and the increasing of salaries goes on apace.

Whatever the automobile may be in war, it certainly is a big thing in political campaigning.

Cider making has begun in some sections. Now bring on the pumpkin pie.

CURRENT OPINION

Schools Pay Too Little Attention to Teaching English.

The kind of preparatory school I prefer is one in which the chief emphasis is placed upon thorough, systematic habits of study, with fine scholarship and ideals of service held before the young people. Athletics should have a universal interest and application but should not be absorbing.

The study which is most neglected, I dare say, is English. The very finest tool with which the student constantly works, whether he writes, speaks or thinks, is the one which is most neglected. The mother tongue is the medium of expression and impression.

If our preparatory schools do not begin doing better work in this field some one will have to insistently demand a reform.—By Professor W. G. Clippinger, President Otterbein University.

JEWS SUFFER BY RUSSIAN PROGRAMS

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The German-Jewish Central Society, has received details of an attempt of the Russian bureaucracy to instigate pogroms in different parts of Russia. According to a report published by the society, the threatened massacres were only prevented by a number of influential members of the Duma and lawyers, who demanded an investigation of the charges against the Jews.

After the first defeat of the Russian troops in the Province of Novgorod, the following report was published by the official organ in Petrograd: "A number of German soldiers succeeded in sneaking in to the village of Kushi, where they were hidden in cellars by Jews. The following night the Germans broke from their hiding places and murdered Colonel Wawlow with several hundred Russian soldiers but reinforcements finally drove them off. The leaders of the Jewish traitors were executed at once and all other Jewish inhabitants have been sent to Siberia."

This report was sent through the Empire and posted at the street corners in every city, town and village. It caused immense excitement and the ignorant masses worked themselves into a frenzy. Memorial services were held everywhere for the "martyred" Colonel, and in many places mobs began to attack the Jews.

The situation became so critical that members of the Duma and prominent lawyers appealed to the government. Prime Minister Golitsyn ordered an official investigation and after many weeks of delay the commissioners appointed, recently published the following report:

"Only three houses of the village of Kushi are owned by Jews and there is not a single building in the town which has a cellar. Colonel Wawlow, who was said to have become a victim of the alleged Jewish treason, never existed and no Jew was court-martialed or executed in the village."

"The town was in the possession of the Germans for a short time. When the enemy was driven out by a Russian battalion the commander of the latter established his headquarters in the house of a Jew named Kibart. The Jew gave all the information he possessed in regard to the movements of the Germans and he warned the commander that the enemy would probably attack the village again."

On the following day the Germans bombarded the village and the house of Kibart was set on fire. The Russian commander ordered a detachment to save the Jew and his family and as many of their belongings as possible. When the town could not be held any longer the Jewish and Christian inhabitants fled with the soldiers under a heavy fire of the German artillery. The Jews were protected and assisted by the Russian commander and his troops in every possible manner."

This report was published in Petro. The minister of the interior however, ordered all district governors to stop the memorial services for the martyr, Colonel Wawlow.

LECTURE WELL ATTENDED.
The lecture on Christian Science last evening in Freeman's Hall, delivered by Hiccknell Young C. S. B. of Chicago, Ill., was well attended and an able discourse. It will later be given to the public through the press.

SENTENCED TO STATE PRISON

Given From One to Three Years for Assault on Dover Girl.

At the opening of the superior court at Dover Monday, Justice Pike presiding, the first case in order was that of State vs. Frank Flannery, charged with breaking and entering in the day time and an attempt to commit an assault upon Florence Russell with intent to kill. Flannery was represented by Judge James McCabe, while Stratford County Solicitor Sherry appeared for the state.

At a previous time the defendant pleaded not guilty. Monday he changed his plea to not contending. Judge Pike then sentenced him to serve a sentence at the state's prison at Concord of not less than one year and one day and not more than three years. The crime charged against Flannery happened last May. Flannery had been keeping company with the Russell girl.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Takes a Crack at "Mechanic"

Editor: "Once more 'Mechanic', with his relief valve proposition has been heard from and to say the least he must be still dreaming. From my actual knowledge and experience with relief valves on either steam, water or air, I can see nothing in the suggestion of 'Mechanic' that will aid the work of a hand pump in throwing a stream. He goes on with his salvo that the Eureka is continually throwing a vaporized stream, and a lot of 'bull' about hydraulics and appears to know as much about either as a cow does about a steam shovel."

Any fireman who has handled a nozzle of a hose line will tell you that the only time a stream is vaporized is when the wind hits it, and that is quite often with the Portsmouth Veteran Firemen.

Let "Mechanic" put this pet valve of his on exhibition somewhere so that we can get a look at it, or take up the study of pressure in pipe lines of hand tubes and the real cause of the continual defeat of these men who always have first money for every monster trucked away in their vest pockets until they wake up.

Will "Mechanic" please tell us what this valve can be set at; what is its composition; where air really comes from in a suction hose and why he never places it on the list of patents? ANOTHER MECHANIC.

They Show the Spirit

The headquarters of the veteran firemen on Maplewood avenue has been elaborately decorated in honor of the visit of the state firemen on Wednesday and Thursday. This is surely the spirit and shows that the veterans are glad to display their good feelings toward the regular department, and it should be recognized to the extent of allowing the veterans to honor the parade on Thursday by marching with the active companies, and invite them to participate in the program throughout the occasion. If the men who wear the red shirts are recognizing the dove of peace why not meet them half way?

THE CHILD'S FEET

Improper shoes in childhood mean years of misery in after life. Frequently slightly corrective foot covering will remedy the small defects children not infrequently show. Many manufacturers specialize on children's shoes and have established brands that are a guarantee of character. Every mother should be in touch with these names—and those who keep posted on newspaper advertising probably are. The better shoes and the better stores are advertisers because of the faith in these goods.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Some Speed at Boston

The workmen in the hull division at the Charlestown navy yard made a record for work yesterday when they removed the damaged propeller of the torpedo boat destroyer Ammen and supplied a new one and had the ship ready to rejoin the fleet in seven hours. The Ammen came from Newport Sunday. The drydock was made ready for her early yesterday morning. She was floated in at eight o'clock and was floated out at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The propeller was damaged in collision with some sunken object. The work was directed by Naval Constructor William J. Baxter.

Trip to the West

Captain William C. Locke, pilot on the yard ferry 1048 is on a month's furlough which he will pass in La Porte, Col.

Coming Back

Mervin G. Ford, a former clerk in the general store who has been for the past year located in Meriden, Mich., will shortly return to Kittery and again take up work at the yard.

Vessel Movements

The Chasin and McDougal have arrived at Newport.

Vestal at Norfolk.

Jr. Lieut. S. A. Mannheim to Radio, Va.

Surgeon W. D. Owens the Utah to the Newport, R. I. training station.

Chief Carpenter C. S. Richardson, home and wait orders.

We Lose Out on the Work

The department has awarded the construction of the survey boat for the Alaska coast work to the Manitowac Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, regardless of the bid sent from the local yard which is said to be the lowest in figure of any submitted by the government yards and outside firms.

More Work on Tennessee

The board of inspection has practically decided that extensive repairs will be necessary on the hulling of the U. S. S. Tennessee, which will necessitate a longer repair period for that ship.

Ferryboat in Collision

The ferryboat 1048 on one of the trips to the yard this forenoon ran into the bow of the U. S. S. Paducah at the chain shed dock and wrecked her pilot house. The tug Pennacook made the trips for the rest of the day and will be relieved on Wednesday by ferryboat 132.

More Electrical Work

An order for the manufacture of more electrical material amounting to $3000 was received from the department today.

Workmen Called

smith's helper, were required today by the Industrial Department.

On Business Trip

Chief Boatswain W. L. Hill is on a business trip to Washington.

Pay Offices Combined

Following the recent directions of the department, the office of Paymaster of General Store and that of the purchasing pay office will be combined on Wednesday. The purchasing pay office for several years was located in Portsmouth but was moved to the yard a year or so ago.

MILITARY DRAMA COMING TO THE "PORTSMOUTH"

"THE TANGLE" REGARDED AS ONE OF THE BEST WILL BE SHOWN WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY.

"The Tangle," a four reel military drama, played by Vitaphone stars will be the big picture at the Portsmouth Theatre for Wednesday and Thursday. The play was written by Col. Jasper Ewing Brady, late of the United States Army and produced under the direction of another army officer, Captain Harry Lambert. The troops used in the production and all regulars are used with the full permission of the War Department.

The play has a strong cast and is regarded as the best military photo play ever filmed.

The story: Lieutenant Jack Bradley, on furlough, becomes engaged to Margaret Lane, a New York society girl. They keep their engagement secret. One day she finds a photo of a beautiful girl in his possession, and being intensely jealous, abruptly terminates their engagement. Jack is ordered to join his regiment at once and is forced to leave without learning the cause of his dismissal.

Margaret returns to New York and eventually marries Richard Everett, although she admits to her soldier husband she does not love him. Two years later, Jack's regiment is ordered to Texas, where Everett, now a Colonel, is in command. Jack's sister, Emily, arrives on a visit and Margaret, to her dismay, recognizes the girl as the original of the photograph. She tries to meet Jack and explain the cause of their estrangement, but still being in love with the girl, he avoids her. While she is explaining matters, Jack almost forgets she is another man's wife, and is about to embrace her when Major Prescott enters. He warns them should be witness a similar scene he will inform the Colonel.

HEARING WAS RESUMED TODAY

(Special to The Herald)

Concord, Sept. 28.—The hearing before the Public Service Commission which is investigating any expedients of the Boston and Maine railroad since 1912 to influence legislation, was resumed with lively interest today. With Benjamin A. Kimball, the 82-year-old president of the Concord and Montreal railroad, testifying again on the mysterious payment of between $27,000 and $28,000 to George A. Weston of Belknap Falls, Vt. This hearing has resolved itself into a probe of how the Boston and Maine spent $300,000 to keep the Grand Trunk railroad from getting into Boston. Today President Kimball read a statement which showed that in the beginning of the Grand Trunk fight the C. and M. road had no funds and he made necessary expenditures out of his personal account. He said that he later took up the matter of reimbursement with President Mellen and it was agreed to reimburse him. The total amount due was $12,665.75. "Somebody had to sign a voucher and after talking with Attorney Weston he found Mr. Weston was willing to sign the voucher. Weston signed it and it became a part of the $27,000 or $28,000 paid to Weston. Mr. Kimball said he did not recall the incident last week but he since refreshed his memory.

No police court today.

Some of the local lodge of Elks attended the funeral of Herbert D. Philbrick at York this afternoon.

BRAVERY AT HAMPTON BEACH FIRE

Every day recently there have been hundreds of visitors to Hampton, some out of idle curiosity and others who were burned out in the recent conflagration. The beach has been unusually active for so late in the season.

During the past day or two the fire disaster has attained many new phases, which go to show the great losses which have been sustained and unusual acts, both of presence of mind as well as bravery.

Miss Mary Batchelder of Little Bear's Head was instrumental in saving a considerable amount of property for St. Peter's Episcopal church, although the church edifice was totally destroyed. Miss Batchelder who was active in securing funds for the erection of the church a few years ago was out walking in Rye on the afternoon of the fire. She noticed columns of dense smoke arising and fearing for the safety of St. Peter's by the Sea, ordered her car, the chauffeur driving with all speed to the scene of the conflagration.

At this time the church was quite remote from the scene of the actual fire, but realizing the danger to the edifice, Miss Batchelder sent her car back to Rye, summoning the gardeners and other men employed upon her estate. They were quickly on the scene and by this time it was plain to all that the church building was doomed. Miss Batchelder personally directed the removing of the seats, the organ, pulpit and other furnishings, these being carried up the beach beyond all danger of destruction. Then with her men she did all that was possible to prevent the spreading of the flames, and when it was seen that the church was certain to go she had her men climb to the belfry and remove the bell, which scarcely an hour before had summoned volunteers to fight the blaze back of the Fairview House.

The building cost approximately $3,000, was insured for $1500, and there was $100 on the furnishings. Rev. Mr. Tyler is not wholly discouraged however and stated services would be resumed next summer in the Opera House of the Casino which was occupied by the local Episcopal society for a number of years previous to the erection of the church.

Among the heaviest of the individual losers is Bandmaster Charles L. Higgins of Haverhill, Mass., who had an attractive summer home on Nudd's avenue, ME Higgins recently sold his city home in Haverhill, removing all his possessions to his beach house which was totally destroyed last Thursday. In the house were many antiques, and a library of music valued at several hundred dollars, all of which is a total loss. Mr. Higgins and his wife and daughter Madeline, the latter, a talented singer, have been touring the mountains of New Hampshire since the close of carnival week and they had proceeded to Burlington, Vt., when they received news of the terrible catastrophe. They at once commenced the return trip, reaching the beach today and finding themselves homeless. Mr. Higgins has not decided yet whether he will rebuild or not. The house was a new one completed only this season, and it was valued at $3,000 being only partially covered by insurance.

J. H. Hamilton and daughter of Hampton Falls, owned three attractive cottages on B street, all of which were destroyed at a combined loss of about $5,000. One of these, the Athen, was the first to go, the other two catching fire in quick succession. Mr. Hamilton was offered a good price for his property only last week, but decided to secure a large figure before making a sale. As it is he had only a partial insurance and his loss will be quite heavy.

Many of the cottages in the Great Bear's Head neighborhood, were many times endangered by the burning brands which were borne a long distance by the wind. On every roof ten men were stationed with pails of water and several owners got out the garden hose which quickly extinguished the blazes.

Mrs. F. L. Hughes who was occupying one of the cottages on Nudd's avenue was overcome by the flames and dense smoke while endeavoring to remove articles from her house, which was finally saved after great exertion.

One after another she removed articles from her house carrying them to the edge of the marsh out of the fire zone. During one of these trips back to the house the volumes of smoke overpowered her and she lost consciousness. Neighbors and volunteers came to her rescue and she was taken to a cottage further up the beach, where later she was revived.

Mrs. C. W. Newcomb who conducted the Boston Drygoods Store on Ocean avenue had her place of business entirely wiped out. Yesterday she rescued from the ruins a quantity of china which by advice of her friends was put upon sale, being readily purchased by souvenir collectors, quite a little sum being realized by the novel proceeding.

Many cottage owners from the more distant points, those who sustained the losses, and others who were anxious concerning the safety of their property have been at the beach during the past day or two, while the big influx of sightseers has resembled one of the busiest seasons of the year.

VALUABLE CAT DOES HOBO ACT

KITTY ROAD BREAK BEAM FROM PORTSMOUTH TO JEWETT AND APPARENTLY ENJOYED THE TRIP.

When a valuable cat takes to riding the break beam rather than ride "on the cushions" a bo can hardly be blamed for preferring the out-door mode of traveling. One feline did this stunt yesterday and it is quite probable that it is the first time that it has been successfully accomplished. The cat was inter recovered and will be returned to its mistress by the American Express Company some time today.

Mrs. George Orr, of Worcester, Mass. was returning to her home from York Beach where she had been spending the summer. At the Portsmouth station yesterday, while waiting for her train, she raised the cover of a basket, she was carrying, in order to exhibit to some friends a beautiful black angora cat. The cat took advantage of the opportunity and made his escape running under the Conway train and boarding a break beam of one of the truck frames.

An excited crowd, led by Mrs. Orr, and supplemented by trainmen and station officials, made an attempt to remove the cat, but were finally obliged to give it up. The train pulled out with the cat doing "the hobo act" like a veteran.

The station agents to the east were notified and when the train reached Jewett, pussy was found safe and sound and allowed the baggage master to capture him. Mrs. Orr was notified and left instruction to have the kit forwarded by express.

The Conway train makes fast time after crossing the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge and how the cat maintained its hold on the break beam is a mystery to the railroad men. Twelve miles on the break beams of a fast moving train is an experience for a cat to be proud of.

"THE HIGH ROAD"

Five-part film version of Edward Sheldon's drama by the same name

By the B. A. Rolfe Photo Play Co.

This is a story of the absorbing history of a woman's winning fight against fate, featuring Valli Valli, the well known English actress. A skillfully devised and realistically photographed fire scene forms one of the many dramatic features of the film.

"THE TATTERED PARCHMENT"—The fourth installment in the "Neil of the Navy" series.

"A STORY OF THE PAST"—The fourteenth installment in the "Road O' Strife series." If you are following this

WHAT IS HAPPENING IN GAY NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 27.—If somebody said to Father Knickerbocker: "There's nothing under your dome," it wouldn't be slang and it wouldn't be a lie. It would be the truth.

This big and foolish city recently spent $16,000,000 on a forty-story municipal building. It cost about twice as much per cubic foot as the best skyscraper.

Long after it was started, work on the higher Woolworth building was begun and long before it was anywhere near completed, the Woolworth building was humming and buzzing with busy clerks and stenographers, bank presidents and lawyers.

Moreover the municipal building isn't completed yet and apparently never will be.

The upper fifteen stories are an utter waste, abandoned to bats, rats and stray felines.

Father Knickerbocker indeed has nothing under his big, ugly dome with the gilt angel at the top. He can't find the $30,000 to $50,000 it would cost to put this fifteen story trifle in order.

With the budget up to $312,000,000, no place can be found for this item (although there are several municipal offices in private buildings in the neighborhood for which the city is paying good rentals).

The fifteen stories form the tower above the larger main structure. They were originally intended for the Standard Testing Laboratory of the city. But the intelligent gentlemen who located the laboratory here forgot the well known fact that all high buildings looked over their assigned quarters, they simply laughed and asked for the cellar.

They couldn't have the cellar because the new subway was running through it. So there you are.

"Build your own subway," is the slogan of a new movement which the great flow of money caused by the war orders has brought about.

A group of men here are urging that property owners along the lines of proposed subways not included along the present gigantic projects going forward get together and finance the lines themselves.

The privately built subways would become part and parcel with the adjoining real estate owners for any temporary loss in the operation of their rapid transit lines.

A new kind of spender has appeared on Broadway. He is a retired broker, a teetotaler, and said to be worth ten millions. His hobby is giving away money to waiters.

Instead of spending his wealth on chorus girls, and gay companions, he seems to find no greater enjoyment than making the rounds of an eating place, giving several large bills which he produces from his pockets in handfuls, to every waiter he meets. One night he gave away scarfs worth $1000 each.

While he is in transit, other business suspends.

While Manhattan is still a long way from prohibition and the near beer saloon, a big step towards aridity has just been taken. Owing to the increase of the state and federal taxes, the well beloved ten cent pint growler has died a sudden death. All pints are now 15 cents. How can the poor, downtrodden homebrewer exist?

Moreover 300 saloons go out of business on October 1. Some day even New York may vote itself grogless.

SOLDIERS ALLOWED TO SELECT BOOKS

Portsmouth, Sept. 27.—George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, who is staying here, heard that the wounded soldiers under treatment in one of the local hospitals wanted a better assortment of books than that which had been supplied by kind hearted but often unreflecting woman visitors.

"I said that I would give one hundred books and jokingly remarked that I intended offering one hundred Bibles but if any of the men would like any other book instead they could mark it on the list."

"When the list was returned I found that the men had selected 72 general books and that they were polite enough to intimate that they would take the remaining 78 in copies of my own works."

"The interesting fact is that all the works of Ruskin appearing in the list were marked."

LOOKING FOR ALLEGED MURDERERS HERE

The Portsmouth police station was notified last evening to be on the lookout for the two negroes who are wanted in connection with the murder of William B. St. John in Portland. All trails from Portland were searched.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK AT UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

New York, Sept. 27.—Pennsylvania seems due for a come back this year. Sixty footballers answered the first call of the coaches, and of this number 31 are veterans of the 1914 campaign—the greatest number of seasoned players that have hoisted the Penn gridiron in many years.

"Many of our best players of 1914 are back," said head coach George Hootner. "The outlook for us just now seems extremely bright."

There are exactly 22 candidates at Penn for the four backfield positions. The coaches are losing sleep trying to figure out what to do with the immense squad. Twelve of them are veterans; the other ten have come up from the freshman class of last year. And the surprising feature is that everyone of that army of 22 is a player of such calibre that he demands the utmost consideration.

Here are the halfback candidates who played either as regulars or substitutes last year: Gatzwiler, Matthews, Bockmeyer, Vreeland, J. R. Wray, Tighe, Greyling, Perrott, Frohofer and Williams. From this bunch two halfbacks probably will be chosen although several of the youngsters are performing in great style.

Penn lost Avery its regular 1914 fullback through graduation, but Doughty who substituted last year has shown up well and looks like a regular. Should he flatter the coaches will probably select the fullback from the heaviest men who are out for the halfback positions.

Berry, a great quarterback will no doubt land the pivot job, although Murdock who has had experience both at end and quarter, is giving him a good fight. Grant and Bell who performed quarterbacking chores for the 1914 freshies are also out for the varsity, but lack of experience is their handicap.

Mike Dettman a Greek personage who weighs 260 pounds in or out of water, is sure of his old position as guard. Russell, Winthrop, Tabor and Hildebrand, veterans from the 1914 campaign are vying a four cornered scrap for the rather guard positions.

Nine veterans and two newcomers are trying for the two tackle jobs. The youngsters can be counted out of it as they are too green. Harris, captain of the eleven is a certainty for one of the tackles, but the coaches are in a quandary as to who is to succeed Townsend, the 1914 regular, who was graduated.

Penn graduated three good men, Koons, Seebach and Prince—but it has a wealth of material from which to make its 1915 selection. Hopkins will likely get one of the regular jobs. The fight for the other is among Urquhart, Lundberg, Cloutier, Wharton, and Bailey, veterans, and Stack, Nearing, Dexter and Young, the rookies.

The one great job confronting the coaches is the developing of a new center to succeed Journey ranked as one of the best middle men in the country and was a wonderful factor in both offensive and defensive Pennsylvania play. Borie, who acted as understudy last year, looks good this year while Allen, another man who attained considerable experience in 1914 also is meriting consideration. The selection will probably be made from between these two, as Eble, the freshman entry seems too inexperienced.

"Money surely has the material, and if the coaches can whip it into shape the Philadelphia institution ought to cover itself with glory—and victory this fall."

was closed. It is recalled that Dr. Constantin Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, had advised his Foreign Office that further exchange of notes on the subject would be futile, because of the absolute determination of President Wilson not to alter the position he had taken. Dr. Dumba's letter of advice, however, never reached the Austrian Foreign Office, being intercepted when his messenger, James F. Archibald, was arrested in England.

The Vienna reply to the American note of Aug. 12, which is called from Ambassador Dumba's position taken in its protest of June 29. The reply affirms that Austria-Hungary never intended to imply that it expected Washington would forbid American citizens to do a normal traffic in the dual monarchy, but solely protested against the economic life of the United States being made subservient to the production of war material on the greatest possible scale, whereby the United States became "militarized."

The note proceeds: "According to paragraphs 2 and 3 of the preamble of The Hague Convention No. 12 of 1907 and supplemented by the general principles of neutrality, the Austro-Hungarian Government considers the concentration of so much American energy on the aim—namely, the delivery of war material whereby, although not intentional but in fact, effective support is rendered one of the belligerent parties—as a 'fait nouveau' (new departure), which confutes the reference of the United States to supposed precedents."

Excessive Supplies Inadmissible "The dual Government is further of the opinion that the excessive export of war material is not admissible even if it is exported to countries of both belligerent parties. The above mentioned fait nouveau should be sufficient reason for altering the existing practice of the United States in regard to the observance of neutrality."

The suggestion of the Austro-Hungarian Government on the question of the supply of war materials was intended to prove that it is in the power of the United States to open the way for commerce with the Central Powers, because this possibility has been provided by the Entente Powers, by no means which even the Government of the United States regards as illegal.

The reference by the United States to the fact that Austria-Hungary did not prohibit commerce, and therefore there was no question of the commercial isolation of South Africa.

The note points out relative to Washington's preference for the German publicist Paul Rohdke that Ehrlich himself has publicly protested against one paragraph of his essay on "Neutrality and Naval Warfare" being interpreted in favor of the United States.

PERISCOPE ON RIFLE

New Invention Aids Australians at the Dardanelles.

Major General Birdwood, who commands the Australian troops engaged at the Dardanelles, has lately written a letter to the governor general of the commonwealth, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, in which he says:

"Our complete moral superiority over the Turk is partly due to the very clever invention of a man named Beach, who produced a periscope rifle. When we got here we denuded the whole of our transports of their looking glasses and made up some 3000 periscopes on our little beach. This man then made a very simple device. The result is the Turk only sees the muzzle of a rifle coming over the parapet without anything behind it to shoot at, and we understand from prisoners that he dislikes this intensely."

In connection with the foregoing, the following extract from the army corps orders is cited by the commonwealth minister of defence: "The army corps commander wishes to record his appreciation of the clever invention of a periscope attachment for the rifle the work of Lance Corporal W. C. B. Beach, 2nd battalion, Australian Imperial force. As far as is known this invention has not been tried in France, the lieutenant general commanding has forwarded the idea to Lord Kitchener for consideration."

JOKES ANNOY GERMANS
Belgians Place Imitation Guns Upon Their Houseposts.

Practical jokes continue to annoy the German authorities, who have considerably difficulty in putting down this form of insult to the invaders by the Belgian populace.

Machine guns were recently installed by the Germans on the roof of the Palais de Justice in order to command the Minimes and Marolles districts, where the rougher elements live. Immediately as if by one thought, the people of the neighborhood mounted imitation guns, made of stovepipe on their houseposts, so that the whole district seemed to bristle with artillery.

Governor General Von Rissing made the jokers pay for their fun, however, at the rate of 15 marks for each offense. The official announcement of the fine accused the jokers of adopting "a method of rillery which could only be disastrous to the excellent relations existing between the civil population and the authorities."

INTERNATIONAL SOIL-PRODUCTS EXPOSITION

Denver, Col., Sept. 27.—The International Soil-Products Exposition began here today and will continue until the 10th of October, while the International Farm Congress will hold its meetings here October 4-7. Among the delegates there are representatives from nearly every country on the globe.

The United States government has an exhibit for which congress appropriated $20,000. This and the Canadian exhibit are of great value. The Auditorium, one of the largest buildings west of the Mississippi river is the concentration point of the group of 12 exposition buildings.

Twenty states have installed fine exhibits of agricultural crops and machinery, gas and electric appliances, motor cars and accessories, dairy products and machinery, industrial, commercial and varied exhibits, mineral and mine displays and demonstrations, and tractor shows. There are also international and interstate displays, a Colorado State exhibit railway and land show.

One of the prominent characteristics of the exposition is the interest shown in the achievements of women. Attractive displays are made of work done by women and children in the line of domestic arts and sciences. The better baby contest has aroused much enthusiasm fully 2000 names having been entered.

Another interesting feature of the exposition is the showing of motion picture which depicts scenes in farming communities and fruit countries and the processes of manufacture of the various products shown in the exhibits. There is no admission charged.

A model dairy building includes everything connected with the dairy business on the farm and in the city. There is in this exhibit, a famous herd of fancy dairy cows owned by the Colorado Agricultural college. Here daily tests of milk and cream are made under the inspection of city, state and U. S. governments.

The mineral and mines exhibit in that it gives remarkable demonstrations of all kinds of concentration and operating metallurgical processes.

The farm congress has a program which is of interest to the farmer, his wife and children, and the stranger who looks in at the gate. The officers of the congress are President Frank W. Mondell of Newcastle, Wyoming; vice-presidents W. C. Edwards of Wichita, La. A. Merrill of Salt Lake City, Thomas P. Cooper of Fargo, N. D.; Secretary and Treasurer, Ralph H. Dixon of Wichita, and W. L. Drummond of Oklahoma, chairman of the board of governors.

The congress will open next Monday with addresses of welcome from the governor of Colorado, George A. Carlson, and the president of the congress, W. P. Mondell. Monday night the governors of several states will speak. They will include Arthur Capen of Kansas, John H. Kendrick of Wyoming, George W. Hunt of Arizona, William McDonald of New Mexico, Moses Alexander of Idaho, Frank M. Byrnes of South Dakota, William Spry of Utah and ex-governor Ammons of Colorado.

Tuesday, crops, soils, irrigation and forestry will make up the program, and the very timely subject of marketing and rural credits. Wednesday will be given over to livestock and dairying with the famous international session of the congress at night when the representatives of foreign countries will exchange ideas concerning farming methods used in the communities in which they live.

WASHINGTON IS IN GALA ATTIRE

30,000 VETERANS ARE EXPECTED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE GRAND ARMY PARADE.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The forty-ninth annual reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic began here today with thousands of veterans of the civil war participating. The celebration which will continue for a week will be featured by a procession of the survivors of the conquering army from the capital to the White House in commemoration of the grand review which marked the close of the civil war.

Thirty thousand veterans are expected to participate in this parade. President Wilson will review it from a grandstand in front of the White House, where President Johnson stood in 1865 to review the conquering army of the north.

The capital is in gala attire. All public buildings, including the White House and the capitol and business houses along Pennsylvania avenue, are draped in the national colors. Commander-in-Chief Palmer was among the day's arrivals.

The day's ceremonies began with the formal opening by Commander Palmer of Camp Emory, official headquarters of the reunion, established in the old Venus building near the capitol and the welcoming by the commander and his staff of Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles retired, who is to be the grand marshal of the parade next Wednesday.

A TEXAS RANGERMUST BE A MAN OF GREAT NERVE

Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 27.—It takes more qualifications to be a Texas Ranger than to be a soldier in the United States Army. For one thing, you must be able to shoot ninety per cent average—very few soldiers can do that. And then, you have to be more than five feet, ten inches tall. You must know how to ride like a cowboy, and be skillful in handling the lariat. You must be a man of unquenchable nerve, and be ready at all times to face danger without a flinch.

It was my good fortune to be one of a party of ten rangers who left Brownsville early one evening in pursuit of some Mexican bandits who had recently raided an American Ranch in the vicinity. Nothing ever excites these men, and as they tightened their cartridge belts, one would imagine they were going out more on a pleasure trip than a man hunt.

I rode beside a tall, quiet, handsome boy of about 22 years of age. His face was as tanned as a Mexican's, but his steel blue eyes betrayed his Anglo-Saxon nationality.

Although, as I said before, he was but a boy, deep furrows—not wrinkles—marked his handsome features. They were the deep, weather-marks which accompany the square jaws of a man of great force. His tall Texas sombrero sat jauntily on a shock of yellow hair.

"Are you married?" I asked him, when we were well on our way.

"No, sir," he drawled. "We rangers never marry. It is one of the rules."

Whoever made that rule certainly beat a lot of pretty Texas girls out of the husbands.

We rode along the country road in silence. No one had much to say. They are quiet fellows—these rangers. They are very unobtrusive in times of peace and very much in evidence when there is trouble going on.

We had now entered that part of the country which is covered with a network of mesquite brush, ten feet in height, as thick as any African jungle ever could be. It seemed a silent command for the men to hold themselves in readiness as we trotted along.

I started to whistle an old familiar tune.

"Shut up," said my partner quietly. We came to a small clearing and halted. The waters of the Rio Grande were dotted with the reflection of the stars in the bright sky. Across the river was Mexico, and her vast, silent prairies gleamed like silver in the starlight. One of the Rangers dismounted and examined the ground closely. In a moment he was up again and in the saddle.

"They have gone that way," he pointed northward.

"How does he know that? His men are after?" I asked of my companion.

"By the foot prints," he replied. "Greasers never take the trouble to shoe their horses. An American's horse is always shod—that is the difference and the hoof prints point northward."

Here we left the road and took up a trail through the chaparral, single file.

The third, third of our horses floofs in the soft earth, and the occasional squeak of a saddle were the only sounds which broke the stillness of the night. Away towards Brownsville, the scream of an automobile horn was heard; across the Rio Grande the high falsetto voice of a Mexican Sentinel and the clear notes of an American Trumpeter's bugle at Fort Brown were

This was the only formal ceremony held, the day being devoted largely to the informal reception of incoming delegations.

The program for the afternoon called for a patriotic concert by the United States Marine band at the pension building, which is to be used as branch headquarters.

Beginning tonight and continuing the only other sounds that penetrated the silence.

Suddenly, without warning, the crash of a body dashing through the dry mesquite to our left was heard. In almost the same instant, ten saddles were emptied, and ten big, strapping Texans had dashed into the brush like so many rabbits. The horses, but for turning curious eyes towards the brush in which their masters had disappeared, remained absolutely still.

A minute later, however, the ten men returned and remounted.

"Coyote," explained my partner with a smile. "The darn critters are always fooling us, because they sound just like a greaser trying to get away."

"EW had ridden but a mile further along this trail, when the still whinny of a pony broke through the stillness. It halted our small band like magic.

Although no one said a word, each man knew what the other thought, and they acted together. Each ranger dismounted and took his rifle from the scabbard.

"It's them, I guess," my partner informed me. "You had better stay with the horses and keep your head under cover in case there is any shooting. We will be back in a little while."

Although every one of the ten rangers who took into the brush were big fellows, each wearing heavy boots, yet, when they had gone but ten paces from where I stood, I could not hear a sound—not even the breaking of a dry twig.

Panthers looking for game in an African jungle could not have moved more silently, and although I knew that the men were not more than 100 feet away, the only sound that broke the stillness was the lapping waters in the Rio Grande to my left.

Another of the things which amazed me was the apparent understanding of the horses as to what was happening. Not one of the eleven animals moved or even brushed his head against a mesquite bush.

Five minutes later, the sound of shot cracked through the air. I was in a state of feverish excitement. Never before had I been in a man-hunt, and this one, staged in a still night of the prairies, bordering the waters of the Rio Grande made me doubt, even then, that it was taking place on American soil. The shot was followed by another one, then a third, then many all at once, and in a few seconds more the air rang with the cracks of rifles. I heard an oath screamed in Spanish; a sharp voiced command to halt, in English. Heard the phink of a body jumping into the Rio Grande, then another one and another one. Someone was crashing madly through the mesquite brush to my right, then all was silence again. A few minutes later, the ten Rangers returned unhurt. While I was trembling in my excitement, the men quietly put their guns back into their scabbards; mounted their horses, turned around, and started back to Brownsville again. Not a word was spoken and each man's face was as immobile as though nothing had happened.

"Did, did, did you get any of them?" I whispered to my partner.

"Five," he said quietly, without looking up.

Ten minutes passed before I nerved myself to ask the second question.

"What did you do with them?" The question seemed to amuse him.

"Greasers are like dogs," he answered. "Let them rot where they die."

Throughout the week the forts around Washington will be illuminated by the Veterans' Signal Corps association.

Twelve war vessels of the United States navy lay at anchor in the Potomac river here today for the inspection of the veterans. Naval officers will give daily demonstrations for the instruction of visitors.

NEW COLLEGE FOR WOMEN NOW OPEN

New London, Conn., Sept. 27.—The New Connecticut College for Women, largely the gift of Norton F. Plant, opened its door here today for the first year of its career with a gathering of more than one hundred students. The young women represented all the New England states and New York.

Dr. Frederick Henry Sykes, president of the college expressed himself as well satisfied with the start of the new institution. The buildings occupy a beautiful sight on a wooded height overlooking the Thames. As room for expansion the college has more than 300 acres of woodland and field, sloping down to the bank of the river.

Here have been built in collegiate Gothic style of architecture, in native stone, hewn from quarries on the college grounds, a large science building to be known as New London hall; two dormitories, known as Plant and Blackstone houses—erected in memory of Commodore Plant's parents—a dining hall, known as Thomas Hall, and a power and heating plant. Work on an open air gymnasium is under way.

The faculty comprises twenty members selected from schools in all parts of the United States.

The movement for the establishment of Connecticut College originated five years ago with three Hartford women, now members of the board of trustees. A two months' campaign which included voluminous correspondence, addresses before many organizations and much traveling about the state resulted in tenders of property for several ambitious communities.

New London was the last town of importance to enter the race. In Oct. 1910 the taxpayers of the municipality unanimously voted $10,000 and Mrs. Harriet U. Allen offered fifty acres. A board of incorporators representative of the entire state was formed and this body in January, 1911, voted to establish the college in this city.

Then came a campaign of two months in which New London raised $135,000 for the institution. Commodore Plant gave $25,000 to this fund. Then in June of 1911 when it had been definitely determined that the college was to be a reality, he modestly announced that he would endow it with $1,000,000, the income to be used in defraying the running expenses.

On that day, June, 1911, the project took tangible form. Architects were hired and as soon as might be the construction of buildings began. Plant and Blackstone houses represent an additional gift by Commodore Plant of $120,000.

ONE AMERICAN KILLED

Port au Prince, Sept. 27.—One American non commissioned officer was killed and ten marines wounded in two battles with Haitian rebels today. Forty of the rebels were killed and many were wounded. Sergeant Pratt was killed when a detachment of marines encountered a force of rebels. Pratt was killed at the first fire which was immediately answered by the Americans with the result that the rebels fled taking with them their wounded. The other engagement occurred five miles from Cape Haitien.

CHANCE FOR THE BOARD OF TRADE

Late Train for Amesbury
Should Run to This City.

The loss of the night Bar Harbor express over the Boston and Maine means something to the people of this city as well as Portland, and is a matter in which Portsmouth should be interested to the extent of taking it up with the railroad management. At present the Boston and Maine has a late train leaving Boston at 11:15 p. m., for Amesbury, arriving there at 12:45 a. m. Why not request the railroad to run the train to Portsmouth only a few more miles. This would not only accommodate passengers but would bring late mail, express, baggage, etc., such as was received on the Bar Harbor express. Why not have the Board of Trade consult with the railroad officials and urge them to give this matter the consideration it should have for the public benefit.

MAROONED ON AN ISLAND

Sea and Wind Wrecks Landing Stage and Party Finally Rescued by Fishermen.

Lester Thompson who occupies a summer cottage on Clark's Island, will not forget in a hurry the experience that he and three others passed through Sunday, Sunday night and part of Monday during the gale that has been sweeping the coast. The party landed on the island Sunday morning on the steamer for New Castle and were marooned there until 1 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

During Sunday afternoon the wind and sea tore away the landing stage, making it impossible for the steamer to again make the island. The party had no boat, and if they did have one it would have meant sure death to attempt to make the shore. They signaled several small boats passing on the river but none of them could get to the shore of the island without being dashed to pieces on the rocks. All Sunday night they passed the sleepless hours expecting any minute that the wind would sweep the frail building into the ocean. At daylight Mr. Thompson tried to get word to the coast guard at Wood Island, that they might come and rescue the women, but none of the men in the passing boat could get near enough to understand him.
Finally a fisherman in a large motorboat managed to land off the lee shore and after much hard work got the party ashore at New Castle.

VAUDEVILLE FOR MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY.

"Les Agoustes"—In their original juggling pantomime entitled "A Jolly Supper at Maxim's." Two men and a woman. An act that has drawn the princely salary of $750 a week on the big city time.

"The Dancing Mares"—Presenting their dancing poverty entitled, "All for a Kiss." Two women and a man. Very clever, and in fact a wonderful trio.

APPLE CROP LOSS.

Hundreds of Dollars Damage Caused by the Gale.

The apple crop in this section was damaged hundreds of dollars by the gale of the past few days in the vicinity of Stratham and North Hampton, where the apple crop is larger than for several years. The damage was serious, the fruit being bruised and blown from the trees. Highway Agent C. Charles Hayes has been kept busy in clearing up the limbs which came down in many streets. It was the heaviest gale for a long period in this section.

WILL SETTLE IT FRIDAY.

Governor and Council meet on Friday, and at that time it is expected that the layout of several roads that have been on hearing lately will be determined.

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE

(MUSIC HALL)
F. W. HARTFORD, Manager

FOR MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

"The High Road"—Five-part film version of Edward Sheldon's drama by the same name, by the B. A. Rolfe Photoplay Co. This is a story of the absorbing history of a woman's winning fight against fate, featuring Valli Valli, the well known English actress.
A skillfully devised and realistically photographed fire scene forms one of the many dramatic features of the film.

"The Tattered Parchment"—The 4th installment in the "Neil of the Navy" series.

"A Story of The Past"—The 14th installment in the "Road O'Strife" series.
If you are following this series don't miss this chapter as it is the most interesting one of all. Watch for the startling developments.
The same popular prices prevail—
Matinee 5c; evening 5c and 10c.

1780 WOODBURY AVE. For Sale

COLONIAL THEATRE

Safety First Quality First

The latest and best in vaudeville and pictures. The field from which our vaudeville is chosen is unlimited.
If Boston, New York or Chicago have it, we have it. We also draw from Europe, thus securing some of the best vaudeville sensations ever witnessed. The same facilities are accorded the Colonial as accorded Keith's Palace Theatre, New York City, and all other big Keith houses throughout the country.

Vaudeville for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

This week the Colonial presents a vaudeville bill that even Hammersteins' or Keith's Palace Theatre in New York have never excelled in quality.

"LES AGOUSTES"—In their original juggling pantomime entitled "A Jolly Supper at Maxim's." Two men and a woman. An act that has drawn the princely salary of $750 a week on the big city time.

"THE DANCING MARS"—Presenting their dancing novelty entitled "All for a Kiss." Two women and a man. Very clever, and in fact a wonderful trio.

"ERWIN AND HERZOG"—Two men billed as singing comedians. They will give you twelve minutes of good clean amusement.

Pictures for Monday and Tuesday

"THE GODDESS"—Fourth installment.
"MAN'S LAW"—Two-part Selig drama. A story of love and revenge woven around folk in a little fisher village.

"ROMANCE OF A HANDKERCHIEF"—Vitaphone
Comedy. The cast includes Maurice Costello and Leah Baird. A complicated affair arises from the loaning of a handkerchief on a train.

"AMONG THOSE KILLED"—Biograph drama. A vivid melodrama concerning the enmity of two men.
One is about to take poison when he reads in a newspaper that his enemy is "among those killed" in a train wreck.

2 and 7 P. M. Matinee 5c
Evening 5c, 10c, 15c
